CAMPUS SPECIFIC INFORMATION

The Chairperson's responsibilities include developing and articulating departmental policies, reviewing and assessing departmental personnel, and establishing and fostering connections between the department and other academic programs and activities. This position offers an exceptional opportunity to participate in the intellectual and institutional development of Sociology, Anthropology, and Social Work within the City University of New York. The successful candidate will teach related courses, maintain an active research record, be a mentor to junior faculty, and advise students.

The 204-acre landscaped campus of CSI, the largest in New York City, is fully accessible from the other boroughs of the City and New Jersey by car and public transportation. Free transportation from Staten Island to Manhattan is available. In addition to the 43 undergraduate and 15 master's degree programs, CSI participates in the doctoral programs of The City University Graduate School.

MINIMUM QUALIFICATIONS

Ph.D. degree in area(s) of expertise, or equivalent as noted below. Also required are the ability to teach successfully, interest in productive scholarship or creative achievement, and ability to cooperate with others for the good of the institution.

PREFERRED QUALIFICATIONS

Applicants must have a Ph.D. in sociology, anthropology, social work or related field and be qualified for appointment at the rank of full professor. The successful candidate will be committed to inclusive excellence; have demonstrated capacity to direct a department with professional and traditional discipline programs, and offer a strong publication, teaching and administrative record. Publication in peer reviewed journals is required and a record of extramural funding is preferred. The area of specialization is open. Applications from sociologists and anthropologists whose work has a global focus or whose work is in the critical traditions of sociology or anthropology; and from social workers whose expertise is in health or disability are of particular interest.

The Search Committee is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and/or service, to the diversity of the academic community. Women and applicants from traditionally underrepresented populations are strongly encouraged to apply.
