FACULTY VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT

The Department of World Languages and Literatures at the College of Staten Island of The City University of New York, invites applications for a full-time tenure-track position as an Assistant Professor of French beginning August, 2016. The successful candidate will perform teaching, research, and guidance duties in area(s) of expertise as noted below, and will share responsibility for committee and department assignments, performing administrative, supervisory, and other functions as may be assigned.

Responsibilities include teaching French at all levels, advising and recruiting students to the program, and developing curriculum for heritage speakers. The candidate will assist the coordinator of French in developing and strengthening ties with other CSI departments and programs, particularly the certificate programs in African and African Diaspora Studies as well as Latin American, Caribbean and Latino/a Studies. The candidate should demonstrate a commitment to research and publication and perform department and college service. The successful candidate will present credentials appropriate for possible appointment to the doctoral faculty of the CUNY Graduate School. The successful candidate will also assume a leading role in maintaining a strong French language curriculum and program.

The College of Staten Island (CSI) is a City University of New York (CUNY) senior College organized around two academic divisions and three schools, with over 14,000 students. CSI offers a broad range of academic programs in the liberal arts and sciences, and in several professional areas. The College awards associate's, bachelor's, master's and clinical doctoral degrees, and in collaboration with The CUNY Graduate Center, numerous PhD degrees. CSI's internationally recognized faculty passionately engage in scholarly and artistic activities, and together with a strong professional staff, lead students through transformational learning experiences both inside and outside of the classroom. The College is situated on a 204-acre site, has recently incorporated a residential component, and is currently engaging in capital expansion. It is a hub of intellectual and artistic activity and a community partner and source of economic impact and job creation for the greater Staten Island area.

QUALIFICATIONS

A Ph.D. degree in French is required at time of appointment. Area of specialization is Francophone Studies. Candidates should demonstrate native/near-native fluency in English and French, established competence in foreign language pedagogy as well as knowledge of current SLA research, including computer-assisted instruction. The candidate should be able to demonstrate concrete experience in innovative and effective teaching.

OTHER QUALIFICATIONS

Specialization in the Caribbean would be particularly attractive. Experience working with heritage speakers is highly desirable.

The College of Staten Island is committed to a diverse work environment that reflects the multicultural makeup of our student body. The successful candidate will be committed to inclusion and excellence. The Search Committee is especially interested in candidates who can contribute, through their research, teaching and/or service, to the diversity of the academic community. Women and applicants from traditionally underrepresented populations are strongly encouraged to apply.
