

Memo: To all BS nursing students

From: BS faculty

Re: Planning your program

We recognize that our students are professional registered nurses, who have many responsibilities and time demands. The faculty has been investigating ways of making the scheduling of your classes more flexible. One change we want you to be aware of and plan for is the development of on-line courses. Currently, the following courses have been or will be developed on-line:

NRS 303	Seminar in Professional Development
NRS 319	Nursing in the Information Age
NRS 321	Introduction to Research in Nursing
NRS 323	Health Care Needs of Vulnerable Populations
NRS 325	Nursing Care at the End-of-Life
NRS 421	Nursing in Critical Illness
NRS 423	Issues in Health Care and Professional Nursing
NRS 504	Women's Health Issues

Since not everyone wants to take on-line courses, these nursing courses will be offered, whenever possible, alternatively as on-line and in-class. For example, in the Spring 2008 semester, NRS 421 is being offered in-class. The next time NRS 421 is offered it will be on-line. In planning your progress through the BS nursing program, please take into consideration your preference for either option.

If you have any questions, please speak with a faculty member.
