Spring 2016 Career Events

For your to do list:

(1) Attend a total of two career-oriented events (and sign in!). The following is a list of events you can attend to complete this requirement. Additional dates will be available soon.
(2) Schedule an appointment to see Richard Krysztoforski in the Career and Scholarship Office to develop a resume and start some career coaching. (You actually have until December to do this, but why not now? I ask you. Why not now?). Go to 1A-105 to schedule an appointment. Let them know you’re a Verrazano student.

These are NOT VELAs.

Career Workshop (offered February 18 or April 19)
These are identical workshops --you may not attend both to receive credit for your two events.
2:30 - 3:30 pm
3S-111
Presented by Richard Krysztoforski of the Career and Scholarship Center
This workshop will review the difference between majors and careers, and how you can translate the skills acquired in your major and your degree in general to a wide variety of careers in disparate fields. You should leave feeling free to study what you love, because your major doesn't equal your career!

Graduate School Workshops (multiple days)
Have you considered graduate school? There are lots of different programs at CSI, and there are programs that frequently accept applications from all sorts of majors. Attend one or more of these workshops to see if your major adequately prepares you for applying, and what you could expect to get out of a career in this field.

Pathfinder Workshops
March 24 and 25
All day in 1A-107, on the bell schedule, there will be Pathfinder Workshops that focus on individual majors, how to use the tools to learn about those majors, and career prospects. You can attend two of the workshops to fulfill that requirement (just not for the same major!). Sign the CLUE sheet (and put VZ next to your name) to get credit (these are not on Eventbrite).

Career Event: Food for Thought--Demonstrating Public Service Through any Major
Tuesday, March 29
2:30 - 3:30 pm in 3S-107
The broadly defined field of public service presents many opportunities for students to strengthen their records for scholarships, fellowships, internships, graduate school and employment. Students will be encouraged to brainstorm ways in which they can contribute to public service. Students will be asked to identify societal issues that affect politics in the U.S. and abroad, speculate the reasons behind these issues, and think of innovative ideas that they can turn into socially conscious endeavors that will have a positive impact. All students are welcome regardless of major or career plan, as topics discussed in this session may give rise to ideas for their own discipline of study. Workshop will also include an overview of available public service related programs, scholarships and fellowships.
