It’s about time to get around to this rather early play of Shakespeare, his romantic tragedy Romeo and Juliet. We’ll look at the play’s plotting, characterization, and language, as well as two notable film versions, Franco Zeffirelli’s almost canonical film and Baz Luhrmann’s jazzy update set in present-day Verona.

The Folger edition is recommended.

Travel Thru History is an educational / informational series of lectures designed to spark interest and enthusiasm in students to learn about the rich and fascinating history by traveling to diverse locations. It’s an adventure through early European and North/South American history that tells the stories of the people, places, and events that shape the institutions of the world.

Learn about words used wrong, words whose meanings have changed, and words no longer used but could still be useful.

HEBREW BIBLE II

John Petersen

Wednesday - Virtual Class
9:05am – 10:35am

4 Sessions
11/16, 11/23, 11/30, 12/7

Each field of knowledge, such as the hard and soft sciences, as well as the humanities (Physics, Chemistry, Biology, Astronomy, Meteorology, Psychology, Anthropology, Sociology, History, etc.) provides an opportunity to serve as an interpretive framework, or a paradigm, to better understand the forces that have influenced the histories depicted in the Bible and continuing to this day. Each of these fields have provided, and continue to provide examples of practitioners who have successfully, and often dramatically, generated a framework for better understanding.

An example might be a medical doctor commenting on and offering provisional diagnosis of symptoms used by Biblical authors.

This course will review examples from Biblical authors in relation to the sciences and humanities; and how these examples came to bear on the cultures and civilizations in the Bible.

The instructor will follow the same format as the initial Hebrew Bible course, i.e., a weekly viewing of the Yale online course of Christine Hayes (50-minute session), a weekly email commentary from the instructor, followed by an online discussion.

KNOW YOUR ANTIQUES & COLLECTIBLES

In this virtual course, the instructor will teach the fundamentals of baking so students can develop their baking knowledge, skills, palate, and confidence. Our first session will be an overview of the course and how to best prepare for this virtual baking class. During the first session, the instructor will also introduce students to the most commonly used ingredients, essential tools for baking success, and the importance of accuracy and preparation.

Afterwards we will learn how easy it is to make freshly baked muffins, fluffy buttermilk biscuits, delicious holiday cookies, and the best-tasting vanilla custard/pudding pastry cream. While you learn how to create great-tasting sweet treats, you will develop a skill that will last you a lifetime. This course is perfect for bakers of every level.

Stephanie Parello

This course explores mindfulness in yourself and in the world around you by connecting with your body. It's not enough to talk or read about mindfulness. We must do it! Some of the best meditation happens when you're actively moving your body. We'll breathe, move, shake, relax, think (or not think), and do.

This course is best suited for novice to intermediate students. Please be prepared to stand for at least a portion of the time. Please wear comfortable shoes and clothes to move around in.

Peter Whitehouse

If you have a mine to look hard enough, gold can frequently still be found in abandoned mines previously considered “worked out”. Certain historical events and people can be a kind of overlooked gold too. This course will survey history prospecting similarly for unworked “things sparkling and collectable,” and not just “fool’s gold” (iron pyrite). Some topics:

• The US Constitution and Human Rights
• Written “History” that is really “memorializing”
• Battle of Teutoburg Forest (a second look.)
• Qanon
• Manuscripts, the lines and between the lines
• Seven theses on Renaissance Women

Harold Hellman

Thursday – In Person Class*
1:25pm – 2:55pm

5 Sessions
9/15, 9/22, 9/29, 10/6, 10/13,

Happiness is our birthright. Observe young children and see how easily joy comes to them. They approach life with an open heart, free to love without placing conditions on the object of their love. The Pursuit of Happiness is more than a class; it is a journey back to ourselves. You will see how things like judgementalism and perfectionism interfere with our happiness, and how choice, unconditional love, gratitude, and compassion put us on the road back to happiness. The course includes guided meditations and other experiential elements in which the participants will develop “happiness skill.”
