Honors Programs

The College of Staten Island offers a number of honors programs, learning communities, and undergraduate research opportunities. Our programs include the Macaulay Honors College: University Scholars Program, which provides high-achieving students with a special honors curriculum of innovative and challenging courses during the first and second years of study; and The Verrazzano School, a program designed to offer students a unique under-graduate education through academically motivated learning communities. The Teacher Education Honors Academy at CSI is designed for select students who are passionate about mathematics and science who want to teach those subjects to middle and high school students. All offer merit-based scholarships. These and other competitive programs allow high-achieving students the opportunity to reach new academic heights.

Transfer Students

As a general rule, the College requires a grade point average equivalent to a C (2.00) for transfer as a matriculated student. Admission to a baccalaureate degree program may vary by department. CSI accepts up to 90 transferred credits.
