The College of Staten Island (CSI) is a City University of New York (CUNY) senior College organized around two academic divisions and three schools, with over 14,000 students. CSI proudly serves a highly diverse student population. More than 50 percent of our students are women and nearly half are from historically underrepresented groups. CSI offers a broad range of academic programs in the liberal arts and sciences, and in several professional areas. The College awards associate's, bachelor's, master's and clinical doctoral degrees, and in collaboration with CUNY Graduate Center, numerous Ph.D. degrees. CSI's internationally recognized faculty passionately engage in scholarly and artistic activities, and together with a strong professional staff, lead students through transformational learning experiences both inside and outside of the classroom. In addition, CSI faculty participate in 31 of the 34 CUNY doctoral programs offered through the Graduate Center in Manhattan, mentoring more than 180 students. Over 130 of these doctoral students participate full time on the CSI campus, primarily in the departments of Biology, Biochemistry, Chemistry, Computer Science, Earth & Environmental Science, Psychology, Physical Therapy, and Physics. The College is situated on a 204-acre site, has recently incorporated a residential component, and is currently engaging in capital expansion. It is a hub of intellectual and artistic activity and a community partner and source of economic impact and job creation for the greater Staten Island area.
